ACCLAIMED QUARTET DARLINGSIDE
ANNOUNCES 2016 SPRING TOUR DATES

"...exquisitely-arranged, literary-minded, baroque folk-pop." – NPR Music

NASHVILLE, TN - Critically acclaimed Massachusetts quartet Darlingside has announced spring tour dates in support of the band's latest album Birds Say. The tour will kick off in Los Angeles on March 2nd with stops in Brooklyn, Nashville, Chicago and Washington, DC. See tour dates below.

Darlingside has been on the road nonstop, including a support tour with Patty Griffin and a performance at the 2015 Americana Music Festival where they were named one of "The Newest & Most Promising Voices In Americana" by NPR Music. View extensive coverage from NPR's All Songs Considered, World Café and the exclusive premiere of the incredible video for "God of Loss" on All Songs First Watch HERE.

Darlingside's modern styling of indie-folk has been making an impact on both fans and critics across the country. PopMatters gave Birds Say 8 out of 10 stars, saying "...rooted in traditional music but has a very subtle experimental mentality that gives the music a quirky charm of its own."

The band has been the feature subject in The New Yorker's Talk Of The Town (view HERE), The Huffington Post and Rolling Stone Country while receiving a wide variety of praise from American Songwriter, Paste and Popdose. View highlights HERE.

A Darlingside performance is a rich and rewarding experience of both gorgeous harmonies and a unique blend of musicianship, intertwined by a comical banter. Watch a live performance of "Go Back" HERE.
