

Mappe Of ~ A Northern Star, A Perfect Stone Lyrics

CAVERN'S DARK

The cancer eats your lungs
Tearing up and trimming the brush beside your bed

And now your body's cold
Settling for sympathy and carrying the weight
But it's not that simple

I'm not the first of your kind
But I won't be the last to say you were right and I should have known, but no remorse

I'm a martyr's son
A northern star, a perfect stone
Ripping out the stains in my clothes
A cavern's end, the lamps are out
I feel you in the dark and I am found

NIMBIN

My brothers haven't written since they made for the coast
I hope that they have found the lives that they wanted most
I haven't ticked the days away the past I can't retrace
But seven years is long enough to forget my face

I walked along that mountainside to find a place to run
Footsteps on a broken fence toward salvation
Ask me what I'm searching for a place to lay my head
Or fleeing from my mother's eyes a morning sun red

Heathen circles round the fire burning aimless souls
Write a line to kill the time or tell us of your home
Of the life I can recall a faint tinge of guilt
How could I abandon them the house my father built

I'm alone, I'm alone, severed growth a mortal home
Vagabond won't you carry on, vagabond won't you carry on

The shoes I gave without the soles to some bearded folk
I tipped my cap to Adelaide and hung out the window
Screaming with the ocean's guide I look to the sun
They'd give anything and everything to do what I had done

KAEPORA

I awoke in a tree, I'd blossomed from its leaves, I awoke into a brighter dark
A fairy of the forest, came into the open, shouting from its blinding eye
We ran into the brush, the violence and the musty centre of our father's heart

The spiders on the walls, cascading waterfalls and caverns of the strangest fear
Pouring from the ceiling, brandishing and reeling, finally I pierce the eye
Suddenly a spark, the aura of a heart and a way out

Came into a clearing
Only the wood providing shielding

Then came the night, and the skulls, the howling of the wolves
They cowered in fear
They cowered in fear at the sun in their eyes, at the light crawling near

Wounded in the mountains, healing from the fountain, trials in the heart of caves
Carrying the stones, a boy without a home, a reckless and unbounded child
Entering a tomb, where time would not move until I had grown

CARBON SCORES AND SMOKE

You're a victim of a restless mind

You burned it down
The home you could have found with everyone inside

You let your mind your foolish, selfish pride
Bring structures to the ground

They watched your body
Fly straight into the sun
Rain down upon the earth

You left your mark
The carbon scores and smoke
The screaming from the hall
The pain you could have stopped

You're a victim of a restless mind

UNFOUND

You gave your love to God, till he stole it from your bed and there you wept
For forty years inside of your head

You saved the written word from an almost certain death but never read
The final page of the journal you kept

But long before he found you
You left your traces so permanent, so permanent

Before you leave
You let him make his peace
Tie all the strands and loose ends
And honestly
I never saw him in me
But I hope someone else does
For all his fears and his flaws

Deteriorate the mind, stealing all its blinding light, now tell me why
Is it sacrifice, for all of mankind

Only the bravest one, who has tears turned into blood will soon be blind
Is it irony or the cruelty of time
But long before he found you
You left your traces so permanent, so permanent

Before you leave
You let him make his peace
Tie all the strands and loose ends
And honestly
I never saw him in me
But I hope someone else does
For all his faith and his flaws

Carried to the deathbed, by the ones you've come to love though names are lost
"But Father, can I ask you this?
Do you ever think... will it come to this? 'Hello, I am your son'?"

Before you leave
You let him make his peace
Tie all the strands and loose ends
And honestly
I never saw him in me
But I hope someone else does
For all his faith and his flaws

RUIN

Bowing at the feet
Gnawing at the bone
Capsizing and baptizing
All your love has grown to hate
Collapsing in the street

Take cover
Or hold yourself above the world
Just keep away from me
Cut ties
You'll hardly recognize me
You'll hardly recognize me

PEACEFUL GHOSTS

Your silhouette is on the door
The subtle steps the creaking floor
You came to hold me in the dark
To soothe the searing pain that sealed this coat of arms

You came across my weathered home
The walls were blank but still were warm

Careful with your light now brother, I have lost them all
See that restless tide now coming down on you alone
Careful with your light now honey, that I fear the most
I carried it to bed and now it's carrying you home

Careful with your light now brother, I have lost them all
See that restless tide now coming down on you alone
Careful with your light now honey, that I fear the most
I carried it to bed and now it's carrying you home
With these peaceful ghosts

III: CERULEAN

Light me a fire inside my keep
Take my home away
Take with you my hesitations
The moon and the sun and the constellations
Fearing love and lightning strikes
Cradle to the funeral pire
With the cracks of the oars
To the light on the shore
From these treacherous tides you will take flight