Nashville, TN - Psychedelic soul ensemble Los Coast has announced national tour dates in support of their upcoming album Samsara, due out June 14th on New West Records. Austin's best kept secret, Los Coast will be opening dates for Lucas Nelson, St. Paul & The Broken Bones and Black Pumas over the next few months.

Los Coast has unveiled a new video for the contagious track "Monsters" which was exclusively premiered via Relix. Click HERE to view. The brainchild of frontman Trey Privott and multi-instrumentalist John Courtney, Los Coast's eclectic sound which is a blend of indie rock, new wave, jazz, funk, soul and world music, is rounded out by Megan Hartman on bass, Damian Llanes on drums and Natalie Wright on keys. Rolling Stone Country recently highlighted the song "The Morning Weight" from the new album and described it as "...steady grooves, fat keyboard and clouds of reverb. The result is a modern single that nods to the past."

Prior to the recording of Samsara Los Coast had been making a name for themselves around Austin, including a long-standing residency at C-Boys Heart & Soul on South Congress. Their electric live performances led to high profile booking at Austin City Limits Music Festival in 2016, helping to spread the word about the band. Since signing with New West, the band has been touring heavily and connecting with fans in support of their upcoming album. For a full list of 2019 tour dates see below.
