Nashville, TN – Singer/songwriter/feminist/activist/author Ani Di Franco is offering Revolutionary Love: Live at Big Blue, a full 95-minute concert documentary film from Ani, Terence Higgins and special guest Ivan Neville. Captured lovingly with seven cameras at Big Blue, Ani's home and recording studio for the past decade, Revolutionary Love: Live at Big Blue finds Ani performing her 22nd studio album Revolutionary Love live, along with classics from Di Franco's illustrious career. Revolutionary Love: Live at Big Blue will be released on July 9 via the Righteous Babe store and Bandcamp; pre-order HERE.

In addition, fans can also pre-order Revolutionary Love: Live at Big Blue as an audio download or CD. Dating back to her landmark live album Living in Clip (which went Gold), Di Franco has been a proponent of regularly releasing her works live, building a deep catalog of offerings that also has included So Much Shouting, So Much Laughter, and Carnegie Hall 4.6.02 which is part of a now 23-album series referred to as her Bootlegs. This latest edition includes additional bonus tracks "You Had Time" and "Life Boat" that were recorded in the same session.

After being off the road due to the pandemic, Di Franco is back on tour beginning August 19 in Davenport, Iowa. Elizabeth Moen has been tapped to support the August tour, while Di Franco joins the Indigo Girls for four co-headline dates in September.
