SEPTEMBER 2022

TEXAS COUNTRY-ROOTS ARTIST WILLIAM CLARK GREEN RELEASES THE FINAL INSTALLMENT OF HIS THREE-PART BAKER HOTEL MUSIC VIDEO SERIES WITH “BEST FRIENDS” (WATCH HERE)

FALL AND WINTER TOUR DATES ARE FULLY ANNOUNCED

From 2013’s Rose Queen to his newest album Baker Hotel, Green creates records that experience the full spectrum of human emotion and feel raw and alive in a world where gloss and polish are often liberally applied. – Raised Rowdy

Nashville, TN – Fort Worth, TX singer/songwriter William Clark Green released a video for “Best Friends”, the third and final installment in his three-part Baker Hotel music video storyline. WATCH HERE.

“I wrote “Best Friends” with one of my best buds, Jake Freeman,” Green says. “You don’t hear many songs about the special bonds in a brotherhood, so we got drunk and wrote about our friendship.”

The sentimental, slow-rolling rootsy anthem acts as a recap of the music video saga presented from Green’s recent Baker Hotel album. The arc began with “Baker Hotel” (WATCH HERE), a nostalgic horror story set to upbeat country punk, capturing the inspirational essence of Mineral Wells, TX and the album as a whole. The narrative continues eight years later in “All You Got”, a coming-of-age high school story of love and opportunity, and the loss of both (WATCH HERE). In “Best Friends”, the main character sifts through the highs and lows of his life before moving to the next chapter.

Green continues his lengthy fall and winter tour this weekend in Winnie, TX at the Texas Rice Festival on October 1, followed by runs across the Midwest and Eastern United States before concluding on December 31 in Tulsa, OK. The All You Got Tour will reach 23 states and all four contiguous U.S. time zones. All tour dates are below or here.

MORE ABOUT BAKER HOTEL: William Clark Green has been selling out venues across his home state and beyond for the last 15 years, making a name for himself as a gritty performer with a big ol’ voice and a powerhouse band. During the recent lull in live performances, Green took stock of his career, re-prioritized, and challenged himself and his sound. Baker Hotel is the creative universe born out of the process.

“What this record means to me is self-reflection, realizing that I just turned 35 and it’s like, ‘Where am I at in life? Where do I want to be? Where did I think I would be?’ Not being able to work [during the lockdown], I had a lot of time to sit and think about myself, and what’s really locking me down, and that’s what I think this record is about,” Green says.

On Baker Hotel Green sharpens his contemporary roots sound while exploring outside it, from indie folk (“Feel Alive”) and swampy country (“Dog Song”) to Southern rock anthems (“All Pot No Chicken”) and traditional Western balladry (“Me, Her and You”). Songwriting themes are similarly balanced, probing deeper into Green’s soul and examining personal convictions, optimism, doubt, and raw truth. Nowhere is the cohesive blend of vision and voice more evident than the album’s first single “All You Got”, a pop rock gem that goes down way too easy for a potential breakup song. Listen here.

Green knows his way around being relatable while also complex, with heartfelt sentiments and turns of phrases like in “Gun to Your Head” when he harmonizes with a pitch-perfect lilt, “Would it kill you to give a little more than you take”. And just try to get the vocal harmonies of the heartbroken “Give A Damn” (“How do you make love not give a damn?”) and the effervescent, commercial-ready “Feel Alive” out of your head after listening.

In a proudly independent regional scene, it’s not easy to separate oneself – or to evolve once you have – but since 2010, William Clark Green has done both. Baker Hotel continues his growth and is a big step forward for a singer/songwriter hitting his stride.
