NEW ALBUM BOOTCUT SET FOR RELEASE ON SEPTEMBER 15TH VIA BRUSHFIRE RECORDS

Nashville, TN – Award-winning Canadian artist Bahamas, a.k.a. Afie Jurvanen, has released a new video for the track "I'm Still" from the upcoming album Bootcut (out September 15th via Brushfire Records).

While many of the songs on Bootcut were written and performed with a strong country influence, "I'm Still" stands out as a bit of an anomaly. The soulful track features a retro R&B arrangement led by a funky guitar riff that sits behind Jurvanen's laid-back vocal cadence. The new video features a solo Jurvanen on a leisurely stroll on High Head Trail and along the beautiful coastline nearby in Blandford, Nova Scotia. He is contemplative at one moment and playful in the next as fans have come to expect in Bahamas' songs and videos. Jurvanen balances thoughtful sincerity and a little fun like few other artists. Jurvanen's love for classic country music shines through on Bootcut, which was recorded at the Sound Emporium studio in Nashville. The new collection seamlessly blends elements of country tradition with Bahamas' signature genre-bending mix of quirky pop, R&B, folk, soul, alternative, and a dose of subtle wit. Jurvanen enlisted some of Music City's finest to record the album, including Vince Gill (guitar), Mickey Raphael (harmonica), Russ Phal (pedal steel), Dave Roe (bass), Sam Bush (mandolin), Jen Gunderman (keyboards), and Jon Radford (drums). The album was produced by Grammy-nominated producer/engineer Robbie Lackritz (Feist, Jack Johnson, Alvvays) and Dan Knobler (Allison Russell, Rodney Crowell).

Bahamas recently announced a fall U.S. tour that will find Jurvanen and company performing 32 shows in 29 days, including "A Family Affair" matinee performances in select cities that will be free to children under 12 and seniors. The tour kicks off on September 21st in Nashville, where Bahamas will make his AmericanaFest debut. The night before, on September 20th, Bahamas will make his Grand Ole Opry debut.
