JOAN OSBORNE

Nobody Owns You

One of the greatest vocalists for 30 years, Osborne is still going strong, collaborating with longtime guitarist Jack Petruzzelli and producer/guitarist Ben Rice. Petruzzelli's baritone lays down the riff in the anthemic "Woman's Work," while Cindy Cashdollar's steel lifts "I Should've Danced More." It's short on solos, but long on musicianship, each player an expert at playing for the song. - DF
