The magnitude of that evening in Summer 2025 signifies so much more than the sold-out show and album release for Daniel Donato. It was a full-circle moment for the singer, songwriter and guitar virtuoso, who performed on Nashville's Lower Broadway as a young teen, playing up to eight hours a day on weekends. One day at 17, an opportunity came when he was asked to audition with one of Robert's amazing house bands, The Don Kelley Band.

"At the age of 14, I started busking on the street in front of the Ryman, and soon after that, I discovered Robert's Western World," says Donato. "For 464 shows, I played at Robert's, and after most shows, I would go and gaze at the majesty of the Mother Church in the late hours of the night. It is said that Nashville is a 10-year town. On the day of performing and recording this live album, it was the 10-year anniversary of my last show at Robert's, and the first time headlining the Ryman Auditorium. To celebrate this occasion, we've did what had never been done on Broadway, by playing a sold-out show at the Ryman and immediately playing a set at the honky-tonk that started it all for me, Robert's Western World. In a 10-year town, with 10,000 hours under these strings, the cosmic circle was fulfilled, and just about every note of every minute of this day is now ready to share with the world.”

Following its August 22nd release via Retrace Music, Horizons garnered high praise from the press, including Rolling Stone, Relix, Saving Country Music, Magnet, The Tennessean, The Nashville Scene, Grateful Web and many more (See Highlights). The band also made their second appearance on CBS Saturday Morning.

“...on ‘Horizons,’ the ambitious and euphonious new studio album, the group’s aim is true.” – Relix

“The Nashville guitarslinger continues to redefine his idea of ‘Cosmic Country’ on a mind-expanding new project.” – Rolling Stone

Daniel Donato’s Cosmic Country is Daniel Donato (lead vocals/guitar), Nathan “Sugar Legg” Aronowitz (keyboards/vocals), Will “Mustang” McGee (bass/vocals), and William “Bronco” Clark (drums & percussion).
